

madras college

The information set out in the pages that follow is designed to help you understand how the school works and what it has to offer you. If you read these pages carefully, preferably together with your parents, you will quickly feel at home among us and you will be ready to take early advantage of what the school has to offer you.

We expect you to share our pride in belonging to Madras College and we hope to find evidence of this pride in your dress, behaviour and attitudes inside and outside school. The extent to which you benefit from your years with us will depend not only on your response to the demands of work in class but also on the extent to which you involve yourself in some of the many voluntary activities we offer.

The attitudes and habits you acquire in your time at Madras College will largely determine the sort of person you will be for the rest of your life. The responsibility for us, as for you, is great. We look forward to sharing with you this responsibility and the work and the adventure of your years with us.

Welcome to Madras College.

Rector.

HISTORY OF THE SCHOOL

The Madras College has been formed by two amalgamations of St Andrews schools. The first took place in 1832 when the old grammar school was joined with the "English" school to form the original Madras College. (The Grammar School stood on the ground between Blackfriars' Church and Lade Braes Lane; the "English" school was on the ground behind the church of Holy Trinity.) The school building in South Street served as secondary school for St Andrews and beyond till the 1880s when the Burgh School in Abbey Walk was erected by the School Board. The two schools existed side by side in the town, the Burgh School serving as junior secondary, the Madras College as senior secondary till the second union took place in 1963 when Fife decided that all secondary schools should become comprehensive. Then the Burgh School and the Madras College were joined to form the present school.

School is housed in two separate buildings. Great extensions were made to the South Street building between 1954 and 1964 and it can now house some 700 pupils. In 1962 it was decided to rehouse the Burgh School in the Kilrymont area. A magnificent new building was erected there which became the Kilrymont part of Madras College.

THE NAME

The Madras College takes its name from the system of education used by the St Andrews man who gave the money to build the original school - Dr Andrew Bell. He was chaplain to regiments in Madras in the late 18th century. In Madras he tried to educate the soldiers' children and, because he had no help, he devised a system by which the older boys were taught a lesson by the master which they in turn taught a group of younger boys. This was called the Monitorial or Madras system of education. When Dr Bell came back to Britain he wanted to see this method used in high schools and set up the Madras College to prove that it would work. It was not very successful and was soon abandoned.

BLAZER BADGE

The badge is a simplified form of the school coat of arms. It shows a chevron between three bells - a reference to Dr Bell. The motto is "Pro rege et grege" which can translate as "For King and People", reminding us that we should be loyal to our country and should do all we can for other people.

ORGANISATION

In school as a whole there are about 1600 pupils:

700 in classes I & II
600 in classes III & IV
200 in class V
100 in class VI

I & II All pupils spend their first two years in the Kilrymont Road building, following a common course of English, Social Subjects, Mathematics, French, Science, Practical Subjects, Art, Music, Physical Education and R.E. (As numbers increase it may be necessary to move one or two classes to the South Street building at the end of class I).

Most teachers have their own rooms. Classes move from room to room.

III & IV At the end of class II pupils must make a choice of the subjects they will study and may begin some new subjects for the next two years. Some will move to the South Street building, others will remain in the Kilrymont building. All will work towards the 'O' grade examinations of the Scottish Certificate of Education Examination Board, examinations which they write at the end of class IV.

V & VI In V and VI there is a further reduction in the numbers of subjects taken, to five in class V and to three or four in Class VI. Pupils work for the S.C.E. examinations at the Higher grade in V and may attempt the Certificate of Sixth Year Studies examination at the end of class VI. Success in the examination at the Higher grade will give admission to universities and colleges.

PASTORAL CARE

All pupils are placed in register classes and have a register teacher to whom they can refer any problems. In addition there is an Assistant Rector for guidance with a staff of guidance teachers who act as Year Masters and Mistresses. They are concerned with both formal guidance, social education and with the personal counselling of pupils. The school doctor and dentist visit school regularly, as do the chaplain and the parish priest.

ABSENCE PROCEDURE

When you know in advance that you will be off school on a particular day please let us know. If you are absent because of illness or some other reason you must bring a note from your parent or guardian when you return to school.

During the school day you must not leave the school area except at dinner time without written permission.

LATECOMERS

If you arrive late in the morning or afternoon you will report to the auxiliary's office first and then to your register teacher.

ILLNESS OR ACCIDENTS

There are sick rooms in school and the local hospital service has been very helpful to us. If the illness or injury appears serious we will get in touch with parents as soon as possible.

SCHOOL MEALS AND TUCK SHOP

Dinners are available. They are cooked in school and are well-balanced meals. Pupils have a choice of dishes. The cost is 15p per day. This is paid in cash daily.

The Tuck Shop is open during the morning interval and at lunch time. All profits go to school funds.

SCHOOL TELEPHONE

The school numbers are - Killymont building - St Andrews 3913
South Street - St Andrews 5733

There is a coin-operated call box in school which pupils may use for outgoing calls.

HOMEWORK

A Homework notebook will be issued to each pupil at the beginning of each session. You should record in this book all homework given out by your teachers. This homework notebook should be carried with you at all times and may be inspected at any time by any member of the staff. Parents are requested to take an interest in homework and to check the homework notebook regularly.

The amount and frequency of homework will vary for each subject. In the first year the homework issued should average about 1 hour per night. Further up the school we shall expect you to devote more time to homework. You will note that you should revise your classwork continually at home. You should set aside an hour or so a night for homework as a matter of routine. Parents are requested that during this period there should be few distractions. Learn to study on your own now and it will help you very much later on. It is a good habit to acquire.

REPORT CARDS

Reports will be sent to parents by post twice a year.

PREFECTS

The prefects in the Kilrymont building are selected from Class IV. They are distinguished by a white badge with the word "Prefect" on it. They are there to help run the school. You will find them helpful.

PARENT-TEACHER ASSOCIATION

There is a flourishing Parent-Teacher Association in school. Meetings are held during most months in the winter and spring terms and form a valuable means of enabling parents to meet one another and staff, as well as a means of keeping them informed of new developments in education. It is hoped that this session the meetings will include a talk by the new rector, a demonstration of the work of the technical department, a discussion on the school and the community, a talk on transition from primary to secondary schooling. There will also be a social function.

The first meeting will be an open evening when the Kilrymont building will be open so that parents of pupils who have newly entered school may see the resources of the place.

Parents will receive notice of all meetings by a typed message taken home by pupils.

Pupils are encouraged to read historical novels; a list of suitable novels for the 11 - 13 age range will be distributed to all 1st and 2nd Year pupils at the beginning of session 1975-76.

Integrated Science :

In addition to worksheets the following texts are used.

Science for the 70's, Book 1 and Book 2. (See Boyd Ritchie)
(Heinemann)
Exploring Physics, Book Two Duncan (John Murray)

CLASSES

In the first year there will be fourteen classes.

SCHOOL RULES

Most of the rules we make will not be meaningful till you are in school - rules about moving from place to place etc. There are general principles underlying them:

- 1) You should behave in a considerate and courteous way at all times.
- 2) You should co-operate at all times with staff and prefects.
- 3) You should work honestly at school and at home.
- 4) You should wear school uniform on all school occasions and maintain a high standard of turnout.
- 5) Punctuality is very important for the smooth running of school.

SCHOOL 'BUSES

Pupils who live more than two miles from school are entitled to free transport. Season tickets will be available in school on the first day of the session. On the first morning pupils should come in on their school 'bus without a ticket. The buses will bring pupils straight to school and will be waiting outside at the end of the day.

CARE OF BOOKS AND STATIONERY

The rising cost of books makes it imperative that they should be kept in good condition as long as possible. I ask parents to ensure that books are covered in strong brown paper and to provide a suitable bag for them. Lost books will be charged for.

LOST PROPERTY

Every year a large amount of clothing, gym shoes, swimsuits etc. is left in school and cannot be returned because there is no name. All clothing and equipment should be clearly marked with the pupil's name. Valuables should not be left in bags or pockets in the cloak-rooms.

SCHOOL UNIFORM

When all pupils wear uniform differences of family income are much less apparent. We would like to see you all in uniform in school whatever you choose to wear out of school. A uniform list is appended and we hope that you will wear it properly and completely - no fancy addition. In particular I would like to stress the very real harm which can be done to the growing feet of girls by shoes which have exaggeratedly high heels.

MADRAS COLLEGE UNIFORM

GIRLS

1. Madras College Blazer (Navy blue not black)
2. Navy blue skirt.
3. White shirt blouse (to be worn with school tie).
